THE SAN JUAN REVOLUTION.

The San Juan tragedy has lost nothing of its atrocity but much of its importance within the last 24 hours. The great moral shock which the news produced when first announced testifies to our improved political morality, and how much the River Plate has advanced since the gory days when Governor Benavidez was shot in a San Juan prison, Governor Virasoro stabbed to the heart in the public Plaza of San Juan, and the unfortunate Alberastain immolated on the same public altar. Verily San Juan is a fatal Province for its Governors. The new victim, Sr. Gomez, was the Warwick of the Province; he made and unmade Governors, and as Senator to Congress might be regarded as higher and more influential than even the Governor himself and the Vice-Governor, who both lie wounded on their beds but, we are happy to say, recovering.

As few of our readers are deeply read in the political history of San Juan, and naturally fail to understand the motives which instigated this crime, we publish the following sketch of some of the parties, victims and actors who figure most prominently on the scene. Our extract is from a temperate and well-timed article in yesterday's Nacion, perhaps the best that has appeared in the columns of our daily press on this most melancholy subject:

Governor Gil, who was in power and near the end of his term of office, is a young lawyer, educated in Buenos Aires, and who, although representing a personal and exclusive political party, ruled in a dignified and tolerant way that secured for him the esteem of even his political adversaries. But he was a candidate for taking the place of Dr. Igarzabal in the National Senate, and this it was that brought about the first split in the ruling party, and was the remote cause of the present catastrophe.

Dr. Doncel, the Governor elect, who is the Federal Judge, and for his intellectual and moral qualities is quite as well liked as Dr. Gil, owed his election exclusively to the personal influence of Senator Gomez, who has unfortunately fallen a victim to his own political action.

Senator Gomez was a brave officer who distinguished himself in Paraguay, and had the honour of leading back to his native province the remains of a heroic battalion whose flag was riddled by the enemy's balls. His personal qualities and the support of the National Government gave him an ascendency in his province, and his sway as Governor was energetic, without any liberty for the people, yet without provoking any open resistence from them, although his own friends were very often at variance. When he was about to leave office the Constitution was reformed, as a personal compliment to him, in order that he might be named Senator in place of Mr. Sarmiento, and to throw obstacles in the way of the election of Dr. Rawson. It is one of the greatest scandals of the present epoch.

From that time Senator Gomez was arbiter in the Province of San Juan, the only Province with Governors, Legislatures and National Deputies in which it was intended, like Dr. Iriondo in Santa Fè, to pull all those official wires by which those who govern are themselves governed, like the showman who works the wires of his dancing dolls.

When Governor Rocha began his secret manœuvres to secure the influence of the arbiters of several Provinces, with the view to being the future President of the Republic, Senator Gomez was applied to, in the same way as those who then disposed of Santa Fè, Entre Rios, Santiago del Estero, Mendoza and Corrientes. Gomez joined the League.

From that hour the Governor of San Juan forfeited the favour of President Roca, and it is notorious that he was threatened with suppression—like Gallino, Gallo and Febre,—and it was at that time that the split occurred in the ruling party in that Province. Gomez was the leader of the fraction of the party that secretly supported Rocha; the other fraction, in open opposition, was ostensibly led by Senator Igarzabal, who represented the political views of President Roca and in whose name several National employées were dismissed, in order to bring pressure on the Provincial Government. Both fractions founded newspapers and in them insulted each other in the most outrageous way. All this happened only eight months ago.

Senator Gomez came to Buenos Ayres to take his seat in Congress and had to make his peace with President Roca, by first abandoning—at least for the moment—his pledges to Rocha, and morally guaranteeing the situation of San Juan, the consequence of which was that Senator Igarzabal and he were on the same side. With this view Gomez told his friends that when Governor Rocha had to yield everything to the pressure of Roca, the weaker ones would be unable to resist it. After that it became known that Dr. Doncel was the President's candidate for the Governorship of San Juan.

FOUR YEARS IN PATAGONIA.

Dr. Coppinger Surgeon of the Alert, has published in England a most interesting account of the Alert in the Straits of Magellan, and as at present there is much interest taken in Patagonia, the Straits, Islands, &c., we feel much pleasure in making room for the following sketch or critique on this interesting work, which we extract from a late number of the Times:—

"Dr. Coppinger speaks of himself modestly as an amateur, and this may account for the fact that he does not seem to know all that has been done in these waters before him. The Alert was away for four years—1878 to 1882—at first under her old commander, Sir George Nares, but for most of the time under Captain Maclear. Much of her time was spent in Magellan's Straits and the intricate channels which intersect the archipelago of Tierra del Fuego. A good many months were also spent on the Chilian coast and in harbour at various Chilian ports. Besides Fiji, Tahiti, and Tonga, a number of rarely-visited islands in the Pacific were touched at. Many months were devoted to the survey of Torres Straits and the north coast of Australia, and some time was spent about the Seychelles and the Amirante groups. To a naturalist with the requisite observation and insight the opportunity was a splendid one; but we have no right to complain if Dr. Coppinger is not a Darwin nor even a Moseley. He did good and useful work. He was diligent in using the dredge and the trawl, and much of his handsome volume is occupied with a catalogue of the multifarious creatures dragged from their native element to serve the noble purpose of museum specimens. These catalogues will doubtless have their uses for Dr. Coppinger's brother naturalists, who may find recorded therein a few specimens that have escaped the bags of previous trawlers. Interspersed among these lists are scanty notes on various things, places, and people seen by Dr. Coppinger during the cruise. He would be a man of extraordinary observation indeed who could have anything new to tell us about Madeira, the Cape Verd Islands, Valparaiso, or even Tahiti, and fortunately Dr. Coppinger does not dwell long on known ground. His observations on the phosphorescence of the sea appear to us to be among the most valuable of his contributions to natural history.

"The most interesting part of his narrative, however, is that devoted to the Fuegians, among whom the Alert spent much of her time. Dr. Coppinger saw a good deal of these most degraded specimens of humanity, and made many notes on their persons, their habits, their dwellings, boats, implements, weapons, and social economy. This is a welcome contribution to a subject of much ethnological interest. Of the inhospitable country also in which the wretched creatures live, he has a good deal to tell us—partly the result of his own observations and partly of his intercourse with the whalers and sealers who spend so much of their time in that neighbourhood. Very curiously, Dr. Coppinger found little trace of the stone period among these savages, only succeeding in finding a single stone axe-head. Their weapons are mostly made of iron scraps and of bottle glass. In the making of the latter the Fuegians are very ingenious. Dr. Coppinger carefully watched the process, and found that the weapons are shaped from the bottle glass not by chipping, but simply by pressure with a bit of wood or bone, and Dr. Coppinger himself succeeded in shaping a piece of glass by means of a bit of soft iron. The same process was used by the North American Indians for their stone implements and weapons. Quite recently Lieutenant Bove, of the Italian Antarctic Expedition, has made an important contribution to Fuegian ethnology. Briefly we may say that the Archipelago is occupied by three distinct races—the Alacalufs in the west, the Onas in the east, and the Yagans in the south. Of these, the Yagans who stretch from the north side of the Beagle Channel southwards to Cape Horn, appear to be the true aborigines. They have been driven to the southernmost and most inhospitable islands by the Onas and Alaculufs of Araucanian stock. The whole population of the dreary archipelago probably does not exceed 8,000. It was part of the Alert's duty to investigate the value of the coal found in Skyring Water in Fuegia; but, so far, it had been found of little use for steamer purposes."

THE MEAT TRADE.

Waiting as we all are for news from England of the sale of the Drabble Mutton Cargo, the following fresh advices received by the mails just entered will much interest those of our readers connected with the beef and mutton interest:—

As was expected, the arrivals of live stock and fresh meat at Liverpool during the past week from the United States and Canada were an increase on those of the previous week, and were quite up to the average of recent weeks. The conveying steamers were nine in number, and their individual shipments were as follows:—The Victoria, with 722 cattle, 1,079 sheep, and 924 quarters of beef; the Thanemore, with 524 cattle; the Iowa, with 340 cattle 340 sheep, and 1,016 quarters of beef; the Queen, with 181 cattle, 1,964 quarters of beef, and 450 carcases of mutton; the Oxenholme, with 205 cattle; the Montreal, with 98 cattle, and 2,016 sheep; the Winconsin, with 2,680 quarters of beef and 780 carcases of mutton; the city of Chicago, with 880 quarters of beef, 125 carcases of mutton, and 99 hogs; and the Lake Champlain, with 593 quarters of beef, and 30 carcases of mutton, making the total imports 2,070 cattle, 3,435 sheep, 8,057 quarters of beef, 1,485 carcases of mutton, and 99 hogs, against a total of 1,300 cattle, 6,610 quarters of beef, 630 carcases of mutton, and 105 hogs for the previous week.

DEATH OF THE REV. MR. LETT.

With profound regret we announce to our readers the death of this most highly esteemed gentleman who, during his long residence in this city previous to his removal to Rosario, endeared himself to all by the examplary discharge of his duties as English protestant clergyman.

The telegram announcing Mr. Lett's death has come so suddenly upon us that we are enable at so short a notice to give our readers a sketch of the long and valued services of this lamented gentleman; but the survivors of the dread yellow fever year will well remember his unceasing and heroic attention here and in Barracas when the pall of death was spread over the whole city. Active, zealous and liberal the Rev. Mr. Lett was esteemed by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance. Of late years he has filled the very important position of English Protestant Chaplain in Rosario where by his untiring zeal he has formed important parochial interests that otherwise would not exist. Nor did Mr. Lett limit his services to his parish, he visited the estancias and colonies etc., wherever he found members of his church residing, and even as far up as Cordova he extended his parochial jurisdiction.

The Rev. Mr. Lett first came to this country, we believe, as a Missionary Clergyman to Patagonia, and came up to Buenos Aires when Mr. Ford was English Chaplain. At the death of Mr Ford he took temporary charge of the parish and filled Mr. Ford's place. During the yellow fever year his services will ever be remembered. Morning, noon and night he was out attending the sick, he never flinched a moment in that terrible time, and when Dr Smith was named Chaplain he acted for some time as his curate, and we believe founded the Barracas Institute. He was named to Rosario (on the death of Rev. Mr. Coombe, some time about the year 1875,) where he has ever since remained until now called to another and a better world.

Mr. Lett died from an acute attack of "pulmonia" and typhoid fever. The regret at his early demise will not be limited to his parish, nor yet to the members of his Congregation; his valued services in the Plate will long be remembered, and we are safe to say that his good deeds will not be interred with his bones. On behalf of the whole foreign community we tender to his widow and family every expression of sympathy at their inexpressible loss.

Peace to his ashes.

FOUR TO ONE.

A TRUE STORY.

January 28th, 1884.

British Legation, Montevideo.

"To the Editor of the Standard.

Dear Sir,

The enclosed story of a case of British Pluck is a true one. The writer is a very old friend of mine, and is now in Holy Orders.

It is to be hoped that such occurrences are in these days unlikely to recur—the "camp" being very much better, and more strictly, looked after than of old. Nevertheless, as even in these more peaceful times, occasion may arise when our countrymen may have to depend for their personal safety as much upon their coolness and courage as upon the efficiency of their weapons you may perhaps agree with me in thinking that this episode of British daring is worth recording as a specimen of what may be done against even such odds as "Four to One," when the One can keep his wits about him.

Faithfully yours

Edmund Monson

A glorious instance of heroism, in self-defence against four hired assassins, was displayed by a Scotchman in South America during the first year of the Crimean war.

His name was John Mundell, who had gone out as an "estanciero," or farmer, and owned several thousand acres. His sheep and cattle amounted to about 12,000 head.

During one of the many revolutions which were continually occurring at that time in the Banda Oriental between the "Blancos" and "Colorados" (the Whites and the Reds), Mundell's land was often trespassed upon by the 'outside' party, and his sheep and cattle appropriated and made use of as commissariat stores for the troops, while gathering together their forces previously to attacking the "inside" party in Montevideo. The losses thus incurred became so considerable, that Mundell was determined to put a stop to these "raids."

Accordingly he armed and trained all his "peones," or labourers, and himself taking the command, successfully warded off the marauders.

By this he became a marked man, and was singled out for death by the Colorados when they got possession of Montevideo and the Government. As soon as that event occurred, almost the first act of the new Presidency was to select four of 'the best o' cut-throats' in the country; the agreement being to give them 500 dollars a-piece on their bringing to the President the head of John Mundell.

His "estancia" was situated at a distance of about thirty leagues from the town of Paysandu; and thither the four assassins were despatched, with instructions to await his arrival there; that being the place to which he went at intervals for the purchase of household necessaries.

They had not taken up their position there many days before Mundell arrived. They saw him put up his horse and enter the hotel; and from an ambush they carefully watched all his proceedings.

On concluding his business, which occupied about a couple of days, he set out for his homeward journey, accompanied only by a lad.

The assassins followed him at a distance for several leagues, and when he had completed the half of his journey they put spurs to their horses and overtook him.

Mundell, hearing the tramp of hoofs behind him, turned round to accost them, and, lifting his "sombrero," gave the usual salutation—"Buenos dias, Caballeros," which they returned in a most courteous manner, at the same time asking him whither he was riding. He replied that he was returning to his "estancia," some fifteen leagues distant. "That you cannot do," they said; "you must return with us, for we hold a warrant for your apprehension." Mundell replied, "That is strange; for I had an interview with the "gefe politico"—Sergeant of Police—at Paysandu just before leaving the town, and he mentioned nothing about my being detained. They rejoined, "We know nothing about that; you must return with us." To this Mundell remarked, "Well, gentlemen, I am accustumed always to obey orders;" and he commenced the return journey, guarded on either side by two of the assassins.

Cantering along, he thought he observed that they gradually approached nearer and nearer to him, until at length at a moment when he happened to be looking in another direction, one of them, suddenly riding close up put a blunderbuss to his side, and fired it. The shot took away a portion of his clothing, but inflicted only slight damage on his person. Mundell's eyes were now at once opened to the treacherous character of the whole proceeding, and putting spurs to his horse, he galloped off for his life at the highest possible speed.

The lad who accompanied him followed his master's example, and was lucky enough to get clear away, although hotly pursued by one of the miscreants, who, on the principle that "dead men," or dead lads, "tell no tales," thought it as well that the young "gaucho" should be disposed of. The lad's horse, however, was fleeter then that of his pursuer, who presently rejoined his confederates.

Meanwhile, Mundell had not galloped above twenty yards, before his horse fell suddenly and violently to the ground, his hind legs having become entangled with a species of missile called "las bolas," which is a kind of "lasso," consisting of three cords, attached at one end, and having each a round ball, of lead or iron at the other.

Being a first-rate horseman, he alighted on his feet, and immediately drew his camp-knife from his girdle, and endeavoured to cut away the 'bolas;' but while in the act of doing so the four men were down upon him.

Mundell confessed to me that, at that moment, and that moment only, during the whole of the murderous onslaught to which he was subjected, he absolutely lost presence of mind. He found himself beset and overwhelmed; he on his feet, and the assassins on horseback, at an advantage of "four to one." His escape seemed utterly hopeless. He, however, drew his pistols, single-barrelled ones only, and fired them off blindly and almost aimlessly; and having done so without any effect, he yet managed, amid the smoke and noise, to free himself from his assailants for a brief moment, and take up a position of quasi-defence, fixing upon them his eyes, which gleamed upon them with a fierce and desperate energy.

Strangely enough, instead of at once following up the 'bloody business,' and ending it, the assassins drew up their horses, and coolly remarked among themselves: "Let him alone for a while; he can do nothing; there's plenty of time." They then dismounted, and quietly lit their cigarillos.

No doubt these men were all cravens at heart, as most hirelings are; but, somehow or other, the influence of a few puffs of tobacco seems to have imparted to one of them an unusual courage; for about this time he made a sudden rush, on foot, at his prey, charging at him with a spear of about twelve feet long.

Mundell was prepared for the movement; and just as the point of the weapon pierced the ball of his hip-joint, he wrenched it from his opponent's hand, and got away; retaining, however, only the upper portion of it, as the spear was broken in half by the struggle. After this fiasco, they began to cut off from Mundell's fallen horse all the silver ornaments on the harness; and having done this at leisure, they remounted, and recommenced the attack.

Mundell, meanwhile, maintaining his threatening attitude, but with no other weapons than this fragment, his knife, and his eagle eye, awaited their coming as they cantered towards him with the view of trampling him down.

His resolute attitude, however, seemed to stagger them. They drew up their horses, and began firing at him with their blunderbusses. These were old fashioned arms, supplied from the armoury in the Tower of London, and which scatter the shot from their bell-shaped muzzle on emerging; and hence it happened that Mundell escaped any serious injury, although he declared that he was fired at at least twenty times.

The men then began to think among themselves that he was what in that country they call "prueba de balas," that is, ball-proof; as a superstition exists among them that some favoured ones are thus miraculously protected by the powers above, and are incapable of being killed by fire-arms.

They accordingly put up their blunderbusses, and took out their lassos, which for about half an hour they continued to throw over Mundell's head, but without effect, as with the fragment of the broken spear which he still retained, he managed to prevent his becoming entangled by the coils.

During all this time Mundell had been walking backwards, at intervals falling over some of the huge tufts of grass which abound there, yet always recovering his feet, until at length he began to feel so thoroughly exhausted that what with the broiling sun, the intense excitement, and the fatigue, he felt that he could last but a very little longer. Placing his camp-knife, which he held in his left hand, close over his heart, he was prepared to plunge it in, the very moment he felt that he was overpowered; for, as he used to say, he would rather suffer any torture than the ignominy of being killed by a "gaucho."

At this juncture the sound of horsemen approaching was heard galloping towards the spot. They consisted of a small troop of armed natives, who, having heard the frequent report of fire-arms, imagined that some engagement was going on.

The assassins no sooner observed them than they hastily reloaded their blunderbusses, and each firing a parting shot at Mundell, but without effect, galloped hastily away. Our hero was picked up by the new comers, and, in a condition more dead than alive, was carried back by them to Paysandu.

As a further illustration of the extraordinary pluck of this man, it may be mentioned, that shortly after recovering from his wounds, which, though numerous, were none of them serious, he actually rode into Montevideo, and might have been seen there for some days coolly and fearlessly promenading the streets under the very eyes of the murderous Presidency, and in the hotbed of his enemies.

Chancing to meet him in that city, he recounted to me the thrilling narrative of his escape, which caused me to exclaim: "But how, in the name of all that's reckless, do you venture to show yourself thus publicly here?" He replied: "The murderous rascals daren't touch me in this town. I carry now a couple of six-barrelled revolvers, and should I be dogged out of the place on leaving, I am a match for half a dozen of them. But, only let me once again meet any one of those four craven hirelings, and his life will not be worth a maravedi."

Some little time after this marvellous exploit, I stayed for a few days with Mundell at his estancia, and he showed me a few trophies of his victory—among them the fragment of the spear, with its steel-pointed head; his underclothing, torn and blackened by the first blunderbuss fire; and his hat, penetrated in two places by shot, indicating how narrow must have been his escape.

During my stay with him, I used to accompany him just before sundown to a high hill near at hand, from whence he would take a telescopic survey of the country round; for he nightly anticipated an attack. His head was worth as much, probably more, than ever. One night we had to sleep out in the open camp; and sleep seemed certainly out of the question, at least for him. With revolver in hand, he sat upright till dawn, with an eye of circumspection, and a look of cool expectancy. To my great relief, we had no visitors; and up to this day the President of the amiable Republic of Montevideo has never been called upon to pay the proffered dollars—the price of blood.

LONDON LETTER.

(From our own Correspondent.)

THE CRISIS IN EGYPT.

January 4, 1884.

Matters in Cairo and the Soudan are becoming more and more serious. Two Cabinet Councils have been held in London at a very short notice, so short, indeed, that Sir Charles Dilke, who was resting from his labours at Cannes, was unable to arrive in London in time to attend. There cannot be much doubt that the sole question discussed at the Council was Egypt. From the testimony of a nun, belonging to a German Order, and who recently left Obeid, it seems that little hope can be entertained of there being more than one European survivor—the servant of a German officer—or of there being many Egyptians who survived the destruction of the army under Hicks-Pasha. The Madhi is advancing north, and his brother-in-law, in command of a party of the Arab forces, is within thirty miles of Khartoum. The insurrection has spread to districts opposite to Jeddah, that is considerably north of Souakim. The Egyptian forces in the Soudan are still scattered in different garrisons, and are liable to be slaughtered in detail. Colonel Coetlogore is at Khartoum, but can only depend on a few Turkish and Albanian troops, and even they are demoralised by false news sent from Cairo of reinforcements being on the way—news they know is false. Meanwhile, the Arab tribes in the neighbourhood are waiting to harass or attack, on the first signs of weakness or retreat on the part of the defenders. Baker Pasha is helpless to cover their retreat to Berber, and the Egyptian army, of 10,000 to 15,000 men, were they all collected in the Delta, would be quite insufficient to protect Cairo. The Khedive is in a state of panic, and there are rumours of his resigning, and of Ismail being called from London to act as Regent. The Egyptian Ministry are equally dismayed, and, after a recent council, it was expected that Cherif Pasha and his colleagues would tender their resignations. Under these circumstances, everyone is anxious to know whether the English Government mean to allow things to drift, or whether they will at once take a new departure in their Egyptian policy that must necessarily end in annexation.

The Paris correspondent of the Standard states that it is reported in quarters likely to be well-informed, that M. Camille Barrère has told the Egyptian Government that if England was unwilling or unable to protect it against the advance of the Mahdi France would do so. At the same time, the Marquis de Noailles informed the Porte that France would not permit the despatch of a Turkish force to Egypt, whether its destination was Alexandria or Souakim. The correspondent adds:—

"If England assumes the Protectorate of Egypt, despatches troops and supplies sufficient to make that Protectorate a reality, and effectually checks the Madhi, constructs a railway—such as the Russians have laid between the Caspian and Merv—between Souakim and Berber, and thus makes good the communication between Berber and Khartoum the French Government will keep quiet. But if more timid councils prevail, and we keep a small force in the Delta, while we allow the Valley of the Upper Nile to be overrun by the Bedouins under the Madhi's lead, we must be prepared to find France stepping in and reaping the advantages which our weak policy has left open to her. I may add, that all I have said above is based upon information communicated to me from official and diplomatic sources. It is believed here to-day that the British Government have been awakened to the necessity of making an effort to retain their hold over Egypt, and in French official circles great disappointment is felt in consequence. Of one thing I can assure you, that if England does not act promptly and vigorously France is prepared to step in."

The whole problem is one of the most difficult ever placed before a British Ministry, and illustrates the unwisdom of playing fast and loose with political principles. To follow the principles of himself and his party Mr. Gladstone should withdraw, at all hazards, from Egypt, and let France take it if she dare. In doing so she would give mortal offence to Italy, and would be viewed with suspicion by all Europe, and perhaps by the United States. Under these circumstances we should fight France with great advantages, for our ships would be sufficient. In the other case, we should cripple ourselves, by having to maintain a large Anglo-Indian army in Egypt, and perhaps amongst a hostile Arab population in and around the country. Unhappily, Mr. Gladstone has given so many pledges to Europe for the maintenance of order and settled Government in Egypt, it is out of the question for him to withdraw; and the next thing is how to remain without virtually assuming a Protectorate. At the present juncture everything points to this ultimate solution, it being understood that the Government mean a temporary Protectorate, and will so represent it to Europe, who will be quite content as long as we pay for it. But the whole thing is damaging to Mr. Gladstone's reputation as a statesman and political thinker; and, unhappily, a regrettable damage it is now too late for him to retrieve. We are not bound to believe in Reuter's telegrams, or in anything that comes from Cairo, but the following paragraph, from this evening's news, is heartrending, and an absolute indignity, considering that 18 months have not passed since we were reaping the glories of Tel-el-Kebir:—

"Cairo, Jan. 4th.

"Relations between England and Egypt are at present somewhat strained.

"The Egyptian Government has sent a Note to the British Government, pointing out that the present state of things cannot continue, and again asking the British Government for its final decision upon the Soudan question. The Note declares that if England refuses assistance, the Khedive and the Egyptian Ministry are firmly determined to abandon to Turkey the Eastern part of the Soudan, and to reduce the Egyptian Tribute to the Porte by an equivalent amount. The Egyptian troops would be concentrated in Egypt Proper, thus giving a force of 15,000 men, which would be sufficient for the maintenance of order and the protection of the frontier without the army of occupation,

"It is stated that Sir Evelyn Baring, in forwarding the note to London, expressed the opinion that 15,000 men would not suffice, as anticipated by the Egyptian Government."

This information may be false, or, if true, it may be merely a suggestion of the French agent in Cairo, which Cherif Pasha has been weak enough to entertain, but it shows that it is about time for the English Cabinet to declare its intentions one way or the other.

Mr. Gladstone, and even his younger colleague, Lord Derby, not to speak of other titled nonentities in the Cabinet, have not got out of old-fashioned, fiddle-faddling ways that do not answer in these days of quick returns, even as profits or visits from Nemesis. Mr. Gladstone has always had abundance of sympathy and desire to do right, but he never in his life had one settled principle in politics; and Lord Derby is, as I think I have called him before, a sort of political Martin Tupper—very pompous, very sententious and sensible, but not reliable in the time of action. He has not shone as a Colonial Minister, and I know privately of cases in which he has taken views that may cost him trouble when Parliament meets; and now to-night we read—although to-morrow it may be contradicted—that the Transvaal delegates (Mr. Kruger, General Smit, and the Rev. P. J. Dutoit) have within the last few days sent a note to Lord Derby, setting forth their final proposals respecting the various matters in dispute. The delegates ask that the Bechuanaland difficulties shall be settled by allowing the chiefs and their tribes the option of coming into the Transvaal Republic or of remaining outside. The delegates also propose that the commercial route which passes through Bechuanaland shall be neutralized. The Boers, it is said, are determined to accept nothing short of the terms set forth in the above proposals, and in the event of the British Government failing to agree to them, the Transvaal Government will act as if they had been conceded, leaving to the British Government the onus and task of preventing the Boers acting upon their own opinion of the necessities of the case.

So we are getting snubbed on all sides; and, if matters do not improve, the Gladstone Ministry will meet Parliament next month under very unfavourable conditions, giving occasion for the howling and barking of Ashmead Bartletts, Churchills, Wolffs, and the whole tribe of lower animals in general.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

Hurrah for the Grand Old Man! The Opposition has been knocked heels over head in the first round with him this session. Were Lord Beaconsfield alive, he would not have been guilty of such a glaring error as courting certain defeat on the second night of the session.

The papers yesterday were full of the lamentable affair in San Juan. The National Government decreed public honours to the memory of Senator Gomez, and the nation's flag was at half-mast on all the public buildings yesterday. As the murdered Senator was a Lt. Colonel in the army, the Army and Navy Club has sent a letter of condolence to his widow and a beautiful wreath to be placed on his tomb. Colonel Godoy will take the wreath to San Juan.

"There was a sound of revelry by night" in the neighbourhood of Calle Lavalle on Thursday evening. Our reporter, on his way home, about 10 p.m., attracted by the distant strains of music, found that they proceeded from the residence of our genial American cousin, Mr. Consul Baker, where Mrs. Baker was receiving a large and brilliant assemblage. We learn from our reporter, who made bold to interview one of the guests, that Mr. and Mrs. Baker, previous to their departure for the Estancia de Weber, wished to receive as many as possible of their numerous native and English-speaking friends, the officers of the Nipsic, and chiefly Mr. Charles Davis, who recently married the charming Miss Julia Navarro. Everything conspired to render the party most agreeable. The evening was cool, the suite of rooms was tastefully decorated, the music and dancing were enchanting, the refreshments most choice, and the ladies—— Here our informer went into such ecstacies over them that we are unable to do justice to his raptures. We are sure Mr. and Mrs. Baker cannot help being gratified at the pleasure they afforded their guests by their courtesy and warm-hearted hospitality.

Our new colleague Figaro paid us its first visit yesterday. From the high literary reputation of its editors, great expectations were entertained of this new paper, and we must say that they have not been disappointed. The Figaro is a brilliant, newsy little sheet that deserves the largest circulation and is certain to secure it. Its size is a blessing, and we only wish that we could cram the matter of the Standard into the same handy compass. Our esteemed new colleague warns Governors and Vice Governors of provinces that the season for making "game" of them has commenced, poor Gomez being the first contribution to the political bag.

Nothing can be livelier or pleasanter than a French Bazaar. The St. Cloud Fetes at Biekhert's Elysian Fields will wind up to-morrow, and we strongly advise all our subscribers to go and leave the charming French ladies a mite for the French Hospital, a most deserving institution. All the schools in town will be admitted free from 1 to 3 o'clock.

The Battle of the Tramways raged more furiously than ever yesterday. Thirty-three guards and drivers awoke in the Policia, and many more of them were arrested during the day. The police in all the Sections are now enforcing the bye-laws with tremendous vigour. If the horses go faster than a jog-trot anywhere; if they do not walk at the 'boca-calles;' if the horn is not sounded at the proper moment; if there be one passenger more than the legal number—then the guard or the driver, or both, are at once arrested. Besides, all the companies have gangs at work paving the streets and repairing the rails and the cars are forced to keep one square behind each other. The fight is so stiff that we saw several cars yesterday without "mayorales." "No hay real que por bien no venga," and it is one decided gain from this tramway muddle to put an end to the furious driviug and overcrowding of the cars, from which so many fatal accidents have occurred.

The public health is in "statu quo"—neither better nor worse. Nothing "sospechoso," even in the 'mas minimo' degree has turned up during the fortnight.

Mr. Nettleship is now hard at work on another square of wooden pavement in Calle Suipacha. It does the eyes good to rest on the neatly-cut wood blocks after looking at the roughly-hewn paving stones in the adjoining squares.

A 'loco' from Entre Rios was locked up yesterday. The poor fellow, when questioned, said he was once a medical student, but has now taken to selling tin "calentadores," to prevent his hair from falling off!! This is a valuable hint to those of our subscribers whose hair is getting thin.

The Lord Mayor has fired another 100 lb shot into the Tramway ranks. Those companies whose lines run along the Corso for Carnival are ordered to repair the streets at once or their cars will not be allowed to run.

There are grand doings to-day at the Guildhall, where at 2 p.m. General Osborn, U. S. Minister, will present to the Lord Mayor the beautifully illuminated note of thanks from the Mayor of Washington for the gold medal commemorative of the federalization of this city. We hear there will be lunch, on a splendid scale from the "Eagle" "confiteria," a most appropriate place to order it when an American diplomatist is to be honoured.

Miss Alice Freeman, President of Wellesley Colege, United States, is slight and girlish in figure, with a youthful face. She is a Doctor of Philosophy, and at the head of a college 500 strong.

President Roca, the Minister of War and a distinguished party will go to the Tigre to-morrow to witness gun-practice by the Escuela Naval boys. The target will be 1500 yards from the shore.

Many of our colleagues present at the first editorial-tramwayorial meeting the other day were polite enough to suppress in their report next morning all mention of our proposal to have workman's fares at early morn and dewy eve. It may improve their brains to learn that the elevated railways in New York carry workmen at five cent fares from 5 a.m. to 8 a.m., and from 6 to 8 p.m.

A New York colleague remarks:—"One of the New York critics solemnly informs us that Ellen Terry's acting is chiefly characterized by a "thrilling quality of unexpectedness Something akin to this has been remarked, we believe, concerning the operation of the business portion of a mule."

We regret to announce the death of Dr. Bosch, who expired yesterday after a long and painful illness, in spite of the best science of his colleagues. The deceased physician was one of the first in Buenos Aires, and his death throws several leading families into mourning.

"Where are now the hopes we cherished" is the only air that can be sung with any degree of proper feeling when the miserable society of the many initials is in question. Yesterday a most brutalizing sight regaled the eyes of some of the neighbours in Calle Moreno. One of the horses of the 'basura' service was literally half dead from suffering, its shoulders being cut open to the blade bone, and the collar still on. Such sights are really sickening.

The Prensa says that more than a month ago it was announced in official naval circles that the Parana was thoroughly equipped and ready for the Southern voyage, but that until after Carnival nobody has any intention of stirring. Such a situation is utterly preposterous, and can only lead to the supposition that all on board are boys, who must be amused first and worked afterwards.

Who wants to buy a Decauville railway? The one at La Plata with all its rolling stock etc is advertized for sale.

The total number of deaths in Buenos Aires last year was 8,501, 26·9 per 1,000 inhabitants. Consumption carried off 903; heart disease 389, and typhoid fever 180. That dread disease Consumption increases every year in this city. In 1882 its victims were 808, and last year 932 double the number of deaths from any other complaint.

We call the attention of our lady readers to Mrs. Shoobridge's advertizement in another column. Those who favour her will find that her establishment is fully equal to the best French ones in town and in many respects better.

Our new evening colleague Los Debates says that it was rumoured yesterday afternoon that Governor Gil, of San Juan, had died of his wounds.

Here's a tip for wheat speculators. The harvest in Juarez is all cut and saved, but there is not a soul there to buy a grain of it, and the poor 'chacareros' are at the end of their wits and pockets, neither of which was ever very deep.

Take care! Don't put your 'vasura' boxes on the door step in the morning, until the savoury cartman's voice calls for it, otherwise you will be fined smartly, and the new Municipality is now making a lot of money by fining unfortunate householders whose servants did not expect this sudden enforcement of the city law.

"The Duke of Argyll is carrying whiskey on one shoulder and water on the other. While a pronounced teetotaler he owns twenty-two distilleries which flourish on his domain at Campbeltown."

A MILLIONAIRE'S "SNORTER"

Those of us who are not millionaires are fond at times of endeavouring to realise the feelings of the few individuals who are. Probably no man who has even dreamt of having the command of unlimited money has not included in his dream a vision of the kind of entertainment to which, in such a case, he would invite his friends. It is no longer necessary, however, to trust wholly to our imaginations in the attempt to realise a millionaire's feast. Mr. Vanderbilt—"the richest man in the universe," as his friends delight to call him—gave a ball the other day upon which he exhausted all the magnificence that unlimited wealth could procure. Flowers are not dear in the United States; nevertheless four thousand pounds were expended upon the roses and other floral decorations of the "Vanderbilt mansion." The supper was prepared by the far-famed Delmonico, and two hundred waiters attended upon the guests. Including the wines, which were, of course, of "the choicest vintages," the cost of the supper was £10,000, and everything else in this glorious exhibiton of unlimited cash and superb refinement was on the same scale. It is satisfactory to add that the munificent host was himself so well satisfied with it that in discoursing on the subject to a friendly reporter, he described it as "a snorter." If the word snorter

STIMULATE THE FALLING HAIR. If your hair is thinning out, remember that underneath the bare scalp there exist the germs for another growth, which requires a stimulant to bring it thugh the epidermis and produce luxurious tresses. Apply the Oriental Tonic often, using the hairbrush vigorously in order to excite the absorbing pores, so that they may receive it, and its effects, will prove beneficial. The experience of all those using the Tonic, is that it not only strengthens the hair, but also increases it. In warm climates where ladies inadvertently have recourse to deleterious oils, it will be found superior to dress the hair, imparting to it lustre, elasticity and beuty.

Press Reports

The Standard, February 1st, 1884.—Until we saw the sample yesterday we would not have believed that the art of refining Petroleum had risen to such a pitch of perfection. The sample we saw is from a parcel just received, called the 'Southern Cross' Kerosene, the sale wholesale Agency for which has, we believe, been obtained by Messrs. Moore & Tudor. The oil is perfectly white and is wonderfully free from smell. We understand that it burns longer and gives a much more brilliant light than any other oil. It does not char the wick like other Petroleum oils do and is much safer, in fact perfectly safe so far as explosions are concerned, as its flashing point in 150°. This oil the public will, we hear, soon be able to obtain from any of the dealers in town and camp.

La Prensa, Feb. 1 de 1884.—Es menester ver para creer (como dijo Santo Tomás). Una muestra de kerosene fino marca "Cruz Meridional," (Southern Cross) que esta en exhibicion en la casa de los Sres. Moore y Tudor, Calle Maipu 93 y 95, y por el cual son unicos agentes en el Rio de la Plata. Dicho kerosene es claro como el agua y con muy poco olor, tan repugnante en los aceites ordinarios, tiene la gran ventaja de durar doble el tiempo del ordinario y no consume la mecha. Tenemos sumo placer en recomendar este kerosene a todos y especialmente a las familias donde suceden tan a menudo desgracias por la explosion de las lámparas, pues con usar el 'Southern Cross, Cruz Meridional' no hay peligro, como su punto de esplosion es de 150° Fahrenheit.

Alerta pues, todos y no compren otro que el kerosene "Cruz Meridional."—N.B.—"Southern Cross."

El Diario, Febrero 1 de 1884.—Jamas hubiésemos pensado que el arte de refinar kerosene hubiese llegado a tal altura, a no ser el haber visto hoy la muestra de una partida recien llegada, con el letrero "Southern Cross," de los Sres. Moore y Tudor, quienes han conseguido el ser nombrados unicos agentes en esta Republica.

El kerosene es perfectamente blanco y transparente, y apenas tiene el olor desagradable que suele tener este aceite; no consume la mecha como el kerosene ordinariamente usado, y el publico puede tener la seguridad que, siendo su punto de esplosion de 150° Fahrenheit, no hay temor en usarlo.

Este kerosene "Southern Cross" se podrá obtener en breves dias en todo almacen.

February 8th, 1884

Cedulas A	101
Cedulas E	87
Cedulas F	84½
National Bank Shares....	132½

The market opened with a buzz this morning; rumors of the most favorable nature were spread by the bulls, and a general push was made to bull the share market; the bears got frightened and began to buy; up went the market and rates would have advanced to 134, if some of the heavy bulls had not sold. One of the leading bulls sold about 500 shares and this coupled with other sales occasioned a weaker feeling towards the end of official hours. With regard to the rumors spread, their veracity is based on wishes that are father to the thought.

Over 4,000 National Bank Shares were sold during official hours for the end of the month; the market opened in advance of last night's prices at 133½, but closed with a weaker feeling all round at 132½. The scrip of the Bank has sprung into demand; holders asked today 140 and 150 for lots of 400 and 500 certificates. No operations were effected in shares for the end of next month.

Cedulas ruled much more active to-day, and prices advanced. A few thousand Series A changed hands at 101; 34,000 Series E were sold at 87½ and 87. Operations for the end of the month embraced 50,000 Series E at 87½-⅝ to 87; 25,000 were sold for the end of March at 87⅝. Operations in Series F were large; 150,000 were sold for cash; the market opened at 84⅜, fell to 84⅛, and closed at 84⅜. A few thousand were sold for the end of the week at 84⅝. For the first time operations in Series F have been more important than in Series E. With regard to the failures in the Cedula liquidation one of the parties who failed has made offers of 45 o/o, 20 o/o cash and the remainder in bills up to the end of the year.

The exchange market is quiet, but a firmer feeling is becoming apparent; something was done in sterling to-day at 47 9/16. The money market shews no change; discounts are quoted at 7 o/o.

The trade returns of the Custom House of this city for last month show as follows in round figures:—

	$ m/n
Imports	4,900,000
Exports	6,900,000
Customs' dues...	2,000,000

A leading broker offered to-day 340⅝ per head for 800 novillos. This points to an improvement in the cattle market. Novillos are daily reported sold in the rural districts in small numbers, under 1,000 head, at prices ranging from 300 to 330$ m/c per head.

The rise in the minimum of the Bank of England has inspired one of our colleagues with serious fears as to the placing of the National loans. The rise shows that there is more activity in the London market. According to latest advices from London, the money market was in a most satisfactory condition. Furthermore, the placing of the loans is delayed by considerations in the Government House, here, and not by difficulties in the London market.

Several wool consignees of the Plaza Once have forwarded circulars to their customers in the rural districts requesting them to reduce their remittances of wool in view of the weak state of the market. Messrs. Ghirsldo and Murature's example is being followed by the other "consignatarios."

A colleague announces a very important transaction in the wool market; 60,000 arrobes of wool sold by a German barraquero of the South to an export firm. This is indeed a large operation.

At foot we publish the Balance-sheet of the Provincial Bank for the month of January; the figures are interesting.

The bridge of the Western Railway over the River Arrecifes is approaching completion; next month the trains will run over it. This bridge is the finest on the Western Railway, and reflects much credit on the engineers who drew up the plans and superintended the construction.

The sales at the ring during official hours were:—

Cedulas—

For cash A 2,500 at 101

For cash A 34,000 at 87¼-87

For Feb. 29th E 50,000 at 87½-1-87

For March 31st E 25,000 at 87⅝

For cash F 150,000 at 84⅜-½-⅝-¾

For Feb. 9th F 4,000 at 84⅜

Sales, 255,500

National Bank Shares—

For Feb. 29th 3,900 at 133¼-133-132½-133 to 133½-133-132½-½-¾

Like wild-fire the news spread through the market this morning that the loan was at last done in London, and that telegrams to that effect had been received this morning from London. We spoke with a leading merchant, connected with the business, at noon, and he said that up to that hour he had received no advices, and knew nothing whatever of the news so current from London. It is probable, however, that if the difficulties that existed here are removed the business may be considered as done, but the rate is not given, neither are there any details as to the subscription by the public, but it must be remembered that the Syndicate is always sufficiently powerful to carry same, and also that already 4 millions pats have been advanced on account of one of those loans, but merchants and others, who understand this market will always watch the exchange market as the true barometer, as the men in London at the head of River Plate moneyed institutions would not fail to wire out to their correspondents here to draw, and draw freely if the loan was known in London to be done or about to be done.

The sale of 6 leagues of land in the 2nd Provincial Section, near Guamini, is reported at 170,000 m/c per league; Mr W. White, broker.

Telegrams from Europe announce a very flat wheat market; the last quotation of the River Plate wheat cabled was 19½ fcs. on the continent. A leading merchant cabled yesterday offering a cargo of wheat, which was refused owing to the falling tendency of the European market. Farmers will not make much money this year, as the immense increase in the crop is no compensation for the excessive fall in prices. Many 'chacareros,' especially those of distant districts, will lose money this season. The brilliant anticipations of November and December are gradually falling to the ground, and the deception of the farmer is becoming greater every day, as the article continue to fell in this market.

Money brokers this afternoon reported the market a little stiffer; there are more takers and less liberality is displayed by capitalists and bankers. No discounts are quoted under 7 o/o, but the Provincial Bank continues to discount with the usual freedom.

Some exchange was passed to-day in francs at 5.01 and 5.02. Sterling 47½-9/16.

Exchange was posted to-day on Antwerp at 5.01, to pay one million paper dollars for 2 leagues of camp bought in the Venado Tuerto for account of a house in Europe. We note also that stocks are being sold on the Bolsa to pay for other land purchases in the same neighbourhood.

It is said on 'Change that yesterday the Provincial Bank decided to maintain its rate of exchange and not for the present to make any alteration.

Mr. Pommes was elected to-day President of the Bolsa, Mr. Tornquist having resigned.

The death of Dr. Bosch was announced on 'Change and caused widespread regret. Deceased was much esteemed by all, and lent the city good services, two years ago, as member of the Municipality.

On very reliable authority we learn that the real news about the loan is that the difficulties caused by one of the Syndicate about the Riachuelo loan have been removed, and that now it is all plain sailing in London, and the loan will be launched in a few days.

Respecting the 30 million loan authorized for Public Works by the last Congress, we understand, that the Minister of Hacienda, Dr. Plaza, does not at present intend to offer it for negotiation. It stands over for four months.

Business in good estancia lands and good camps we learn from the brokers is very brisk, and some large and important sales have been effected these days, but the prices and terms are reserved. We hear of the sale of several leagues of land on the Rio Colorado at $60,000 ⅌ per league, which seems cheap; and also of the sale of a "rodeo" of mestizo cattle in the Bragado district at 240 "al corte."

There was a sudden turn in the Share market during afterhours. Several brokers, who generally keep aloof from the speculation, entered the liquidation parlor and threw 1,500 Shares on the market; rates were upset and the stock tumbled to 131½, when a general stand-from-under feeling seized the bulls. But the market recovered gradually and operations were effected at rates which shewed a gradual and steady advance; those who had sold out in the morning at 33 began to buy back, and the stock closed with a buoyant and firm feeling at 132½, buyers for the end of the month. Over 2000 Shares were sold during afterhours. The fall in the stock was accompanied by rumors naturally quite the reverse of those circulated in the morning.

Private advices per mail from London announce a deficit of from three to four million pounds in the tea crop of China; prices at home have risen ten per cent, strange to say this rise has not much affected this market in view of the heavy stock on hand. The Chinese muddle with France no longer affects this market.

Messrs. J. P. Boyd y Co have obtained the important contract to supply coal during 1884 for the great Water Works' machinery and the San Isidro Brick

La area de terreno que ocupa con frentes a las calles mencionadas, se compone de 4,751 varas cuadradas y lo edificado esta distribuido en la forma siguiente: a Rivadavia, 8 almacenes incluso la esquina, con altos, a Azcuenaga 10 almacenes, tambien con altos, y en el pasage a la calle Piedad 14 almacenes.

En torno de la gran plaza el trafico de las carretas, toda adoquinada, tiene 4 pabellones con 48 puestos para la venta de carne, y sobre los costados, con calles por medio, tambien adoquinadas, hay cinco pabellones con 39 puestos para verduras, aves, pescado y otros articulos. El gran pabellon techado, formando plazuela en el centro, que se denomina "El Piso," tiene 14 puestos para la venta de fruta y contiguo a el esta el departamento de la administracion con todos los muebles necesarios y gran repuesto de los diversos boletos que se emplean en los cobros diarios.

El edificio tiene seis entradas con grandes portones de fierro, tres a Rivadavia, dos a Azcuenaga, y uno a Piedad. Todo esta edificado en cal, con tirantes y columnas de madera urunday y los techos de teja francesa. Los pisos de carnicerias y puestos de verduras son de cimento hidrofugo Poggi y el del gran pasage, de concreto sistema Aldao. El establecimiento contiene un total de 138 locales para almacenes, puestos &c, y a mas un corral, caballerizas con pesebres, letrinas y grandes sumideros, aguas corrientes y gas en todo el establecimiento, interior y exteriormente, con llaves de incendio distribuidas convenientemente.

En poder de los Rematadores estan las escrituras de propiedad, la Concesion Municipal del radio de seis cuadras a todo rumbo, acordada por diez años, de los que hay aun ocho a correr, y el ultimo balance anual de 1883, tomado de los libros de la Campaña, sobre los cuales se puede verificar su exactitud si se quiere. El impuesto que se abona a la Municipalidad en compensacion del radio es de $ 120,000 m/c al año, pagaderos por trimestres vencidos.

El conjunto de este establecimiento, en sus tres frentes, es de una arquitectura a proposito y presenta un golpe de vista que embellece aquella localidad. Las veredas que circundan el edificio son de piedra de Escocia.

Creemos escusado entrar a encomiar la importancia del negocio que se desarrolla en aquel mercado y que aumenta diariamente, a punto de ser muy pocos los locales que se encuentran desocupados.

Dysentery, Cholera Fever, Ague
Coughs, Colds, &c.
Dr J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne
(Ex Army Medical Staff)
IS THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

CAUTION—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. P. Wood stated that Dr. J. Collis Browne was undoubtedly the inventor of Chlorodyne; that the story of the defendant, Freeman, being the inventor was deliberately untrue, which he regretted had been sworn to. Eminent hospital physicians of London stated that Dr. J. Collis Browne was the discoverer of Chlorodyne; that they prescribe it largely, and mean no other than Dr. Browne's—See Times, July 12th 1864.

The Public, therefore, are cautioned against using any other than
Dr J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne.
REMEDIAL USES AND ACTION.

This invaluable remedy produces quiet, refreshing sleep, relieves pain, calms the system, restores the deranged functions, and stimulates health action of the secretions of the body, without creating any of those unpleasant results attending the use of opium. Old and young may take it all hours and times when requisite. Thousands of persons testify to its marvellous good effects and wonderful cures, while medical men extol its virtues most extensive.

CHLORODYNE is admitted by the profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.

CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for coughs, consumption, bronchitis, asthma.

CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests too often fatal diseases Diphtheria Fever, Crup. Ague.

CHLORODYNE acts like a charming Diarrhoea, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.

CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation and Spasms.

CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer Toothache, Meningites, &c.

From Symes & Co., Pharmaceutical Chemist, Medical Hall, Simla, Jan-5th 1880. To J. T. Davenport, Esq., 22, Great Russell Street, Bloomsbury, London—"Dear Sir, we embrace this opportunity of congralulating you upon the wide-spread reputation this justly-esteemed medicine, DR COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE, has earned for itself, not only in Hindostan, but all over the East. As a remedy of general utility, we much question whether a better is imported into the country, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other brands, we are happy to say, are now relegated to the native bazaars, and, judging from their sale, we fancy their sojourn there will be but evanescent. We could multiply instances ad infinitum of the extraordinary efficacy of DR. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE in Diarrhoea, and Dysentery, Spasms, Cramps, Neuralgia, the Vomitting of Pregnancy, and as a general sedative, that have occurred under our personal observation during many years. In Choleratic Diarrhoea, and even in the more terrible forms of Cholera itself, we have witnessed its surprisingly controlling power. We have never used any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's, from a firm conviction that it is decidedly the best, and also from a sense of duty we owe to the profession and the public, as we are of opinion that the substitution of any other than Collis Browne's is a "deliberate breach of faith on the part of the chemist to prescribe and patient alike." We are, Sir, faithfully yours, Symes & Co., Members of the Pharm. Society of Great Britain, His Excellency the Viceroy's Chemists."

Extract from the General Board of Health, London, as to its efficacy in Cholera—"We strongly are we convinced of the immense value of this remedy that we cannot too forcibly urge the necessity of adopting it in all classes."

CAUTION—None genuine without the words 'Dr J. Collis Browne or the Government Stamp. Overwhelming médical testimony accompanies each bottle.
